

UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: Is this legit? In the U.S., the Ivy League consists of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Brown, Dartmouth, Cornell and Pennsylvania. This is true. Ivy League colleges and universities are known for academic excellence and social prestige.

AZUZ: They are also known for high tuition. At Harvard, costs of attendance, which includes tuition, fees, room and board is $60,000 a year. Can you say scholarship? It's also selective. Last year's acceptance rate was less than six percent. So, Ivy League acceptance is an accomplishment in itself, especially if it's to the whole league.

(BEGIN VIDEO CLIP)

UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: Kwasi Enin is a 17-year old student at William Floyd High School who now has the biggest decision of his life ahead of him. Enin applied to and was accepted to all eight Ivy League Schools.

KWASI ENIN: My dream came true, basically.

UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: Kwasi says he hasn't picked which one he wants to attend yet. As expected, he says he'll do his research and select the one he really wants to go to. He says his parents have been the driving force behind his academics.

ENIN: They are very proud because the whole journey, I mean, of childhood here and hoping for the best and then the best becoming like this level.

UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: Kwasi got a 22-50 out of 24-50 on his SAT score, which places him in a 99 percentile for all students taking the exam. But for him, it's not just about SAT scores.

ENIN: I think I have the newly well-rounded - when it comes to academics, music, sports and just like - doesn't always been like the very best in all of them.

UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: His principal Barbara Butler says his accomplishments have inspired other students in the school.

BARBARA BUTLER, PRINCIPAL, WILLIAM FLOYD HIGH SCHOOL: He's been an inspiration for other kids, even just walking down the hall today. Kids have said things like I want to do that. I want to try that.

UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: In addition to his achievements, Kwasi just has a great attitude towards life.

ENIN: I mean knowing that I'm going to have a happy day because of the things I'm doing in this day. Because I love doing all of them. So I think that's what really pushes me.

(END VIDEOTAPE)

AZUZ: First school in today's Roll Call is in the northeast. Glenn Mill's Pennsylvania. Not too far from the capital, we've got Garnet Valley High School, the Jaguars are on today's roll. Moving south to the volunteer's day to Beavers of Karns High School who are watching there in Knoxville, Tennessee. And in Pavilion Wyoming it's good to see the cougars on the prow. They are online at Wind River Middle High School.