Havdalah Candle

At the close of each Sabbath, Jewish families say a blessing as they light the Havdalah (pronounced "Hahv-DAHL-ah") candle. This ceremony marks the separation of the Sabbath with the rest of the week. Every Tribe lights this traditional candle during Tribe Time!

Spice Box

Fill this container with cinnamon and cloves, then pass it among Tribe members to remember the joy—and precious fragrance—of the Sabbath. In Jesus' time, spices helped comfort people's saddened souls as the Sabbath ended.

Mezuzah

The mezuzah (pronounced "muh-ZOO-zuh") holds the Shema (pronounced "Sh-MAH")—the first great law of the Hebrews. Every time you enter and leave your Tribe meeting space, each person gently touches the mezuzah as a way to remember God's important law.
